Smalcald Articles: A Window into Martin Luther

Bishop David Zellmer

Thunderstik Lodge
Chamberlain, SD
March 19-20, 2010

Program begins at 7pm Friday March 19

This class seeks to:

- Look at the Smalcald Articles to glimpse Martin Luther's theological framework
- underscore the Lutheran concept of law and gospel
- Create an opportunity for fellowship and learning

The workshop begins on Friday at 7 PM. The workshop concludes at 4:30 on Saturday.

Cost includes a double occupancy room with bathroom, breakfast and lunch on Saturday.

Cost: $137

Preparation:

Participants should read the Smalcald Articles before coming to the retreat. They can be found in the Book of Concord, which you can buy, or you can borrow from your pastor or church library. While the Articles are only around 30 pages, the language of the Articles is not quick reading—give yourself some time to digest them.

Books

Participants need to read the Smalcald Articles in advance of the workshop. They can be found in The Book of Concord. If you do not own one, or wish to buy one, you can probably borrow one from your pastor or congregational library.

About our teacher, Bishop David Zellmer

The Reverend David B. Zellmer was elected bishop of the South Dakota Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) in 2007, after more than a quarter of a century of parish ministry across South Dakota, serving congregations and communities of all sizes. A graduate of Luther Seminary, St. Paul, Minnesota, Zellmer was ordained in the American Lutheran Church (ALC), a predecessor of the ELCA, in 1981 and began his ministry in Aberdeen, South Dakota. Wherever he has served, he has earned a reputation for reaching out to the community as a whole, not just to Lutheran congregations, and for his presence in both civic and religious arenas. In 2000, Zellmer was invited by the U.S. Surgeon General's Task Force, "Call to Action to Prevent Suicide", to be a keynote speaker in Portland, Oregon, addressing "Raising Public Awareness for Suicide Prevention." In 2002, he traveled to Cameroon, Africa, with a team from the South Dakota Synod to support the ordination of women in the Lutheran church there. Open to new ideas and always seeking multiple avenues for the Gospel to reach people near and far, Zellmer has stepped outside the box in his ministry. As a licensed pilot, he has developed a flying ministry, helping individuals and families facing illness or crisis with transportation options or distance visitation. Zellmer and his wife, LaDonna Graves Zellmer, a school counselor, are the parents of four children, and the grandparents of 3 grandchildren.
